First: Final Statement

Praise to Allah Lord of the worlds, and may the blessings and peace be upon whom He sent as a mercy, our master Muhammad, upon his family, companions, and those who follow them until the Day of Judgment

With the grace of Allah, the Secretariat General of the International Islamic Fiqh Academy of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (Jeddah, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia) held via videoconference on Monday 10 Rajab 1442 (22 February 2021) a medical fiqh symposium on Shariah rulings regarding the use of Covid-19 vaccines, their purchase and the financing of their distribution with Zakat funds, following two questions received from the OIC Secretariat General and the Islamic Development Bank.

The symposium brought together several eminent scholars who are also members and experts of the Academy (list of names attached) and opened with a recitation of the Holy Quran.

H.E. Sheikh Saleh bin Abdullah bin Humaid, President of the Academy and Advisor to the Royal Saudi Court, delivered the opening address in which he welcomed the distinguished participants and thanked them for accepting the invitation of the Secretariat General of the Academy to participate in the medical fiqh symposium.

Afterwards, H.E. Prof. Koutoub Moustapha Sano, Secretary General of the Academy, presented in the keynote address the first question of the Secretariat General of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation, and the second question of the Islamic Development Bank, which read as follows:

- 1) What is the Shariah ruling on the use of Covid-19 vaccines?
- 2) What is the Shariah ruling on the purchase of Covid-19 vaccines and the financing of their distribution to the poor using Zakat funds?

After presenting the two questions to the jurisconsults and doctors, the symposium's audience listened to a detailed presentation of the participating doctors who gave essential explanations on the most important substances that make up the currently available vaccines against Covid-19 from a medical perspective. The audience then listened to the interventions of the jurisconsults on the questions mentioned above.

A committee was therefore formed among the symposium participants to formulate the recommendations. The Secretariat General of the Academy contacted the participating jurisconsults and doctors in order to submit their suggestions on the recommendations. Many interesting suggestions were received, and after review, the following recommendations were concluded:

Second Recommendations

1) Components of Current Covid-19 Vaccines:

Specialists in pharmacology and preventive medicine confirm that the vaccines available against Covid-19 consist of the messenger RNA (ribonucleic acid) of the "SARS CoV2" virus, recombinant DNA material, the common cold virus (adenovirus), other viruses, bacteria, compounds of quillaja tree bark and plants (as bioreactors), in addition to other auxiliary substances such as potassium, sodium, magnesium, phosphate, acetic acid, tromethamine hydrochloride, diacetate, polysorbate, sucrose, lipids, cholesterol, histidine, ethanol and water.

Therefore, these vaccines do not contain pig or human derivatives, and during their production, chemical reactions and transformations occur between their components, which fall within the Shariah rulings regarding metamorphosis in Islamic jurisprudence.

2) Shariah Ruling on the Use of Current Vaccines:

Based on the above medical description of the current vaccines, their use for vaccination against Covid-19 is permissible according to Sharia law.

Moreover, vaccination becomes mandatory if the government obligates it, because «the government's rulings are commended by upholding public interests. »

On this basis, this symposium calls on Muslims around the world to comply with the instructions issued by the governments of their countries and by the competent health authorities in their communities, in order to implement the Shariah objective of the preservation of life, which is a necessary purpose in Islamic law.

3) Shariah Ruling on the Use of Zakat funds for the purchase of Covid-19 Vaccines :

After examination and review of the Shariah-based evidences, the supreme purposes, the general maxims, the finalities of actions, the jurisprudential efforts (Ijtihad) of the renowned jurisconsults, past and present, on the meanings of the eight categories of the Zakat recipients mentioned in the Quranic verse:

"Zakat expenditures are only for the poor and for the needy and for those employed to collect [zakat] and for bringing hearts together [for Islam] and for freeing captives [or slaves] and for those in debt and for the cause of Allah and for the [stranded] traveler - an obligation [imposed] by Allah. And Allah is Knowing and Wise." Al-Tawbah 60.

The symposium recommends the following:

(A) It is permissible to use Zakat funds as this is contained in the above category of "and in the cause of Allah"; as a matter of fact, the Covid-19 pandemic threatens all humanity, and it must be fought with all the scientific and material means that are permitted. Therefore, the ruler (government) has the right to use the Zakat funds for the elimination of this danger.

(B) To say: it is legitimate under Sharia law to use Zakat funds to purchase vaccines and finance their distribution, does not allude to spending all Zakat funds for that purpose. Indeed, only a part of its funds would be spent for that while taking into account the rest of the beneficiaries based on the evaluation of interests and needs.

4) General Recommendations

1- Call on the world states, especially those that are able to cooperate in making vaccines available to countries that cannot purchase them, to finance their distribution to the needy people of the world, because the fight against Covid-19 must be global and for all countries so that everyone will be protected against the pandemic, in sha Allah.

2- Call on states, organizations, health authorities, media, and all humanity to consider vaccination as a humanitarian issue, which requires cooperation and solidarity in vaccines distribution between countries and humans in a simple and accessible manner.

3- Call on scholars, preachers, imams, speakers, and counsellors to advise people to respond favorably to the Covid-19 vaccination campaigns and to warn against rumours and irregular fatwas that sow confusion about the legitimacy of the use of these vaccines, which have been medically proven to be effective and capable of protecting humans against this pandemic.

4- Call on Muslims to return to Allah, to repent even more, to seek for forgiveness, to give more charities and acts of obedience, so that Allah may spare this pandemic from us and the world, and may He accept those who have perished because of this pandemic. May Allah grant them His forgiveness and mercy, and may He hasten the healing of the sick, protect us and all mankind, for He is All-Capable.

We ask Allah to hasten the end of this pandemic and may wellness, security, and peace prevail over all peoples.

May the blessings and peace of Allah be upon our prophet Muhammad, his family and all his companions.
